At 3.30 P.M. I saw a ♀ on a dead branch of the elm on the Chauncy Smith place close to the sidewalk and near the shops, about 40 ft up. As I looked the ♂ soared over the place and alighted by her within a foot or two. I watched them about 5 minutes. Then the ♂ sailed straight away, and alighted on a small white Pine across the opening, about 40 ft up. The ♀ soon followed and alighted very close to the ♂.
They were silent and did not go near the hole in the partially dead Pine near the corner of the house where is a hole in to which.

Clear, calm, hot.

In Cambridge brook the same sps of Ducks + 1 Coot as on the previous days except the Buffhead - they seemed of the same number - they were asleep or feeding.

In the center of the Pond were some 300 Herring Gulls. A few Black Ducks were scattered here & there on the Pond -

Gulls were soaring overhead, while those on the water were either resting or ducking, their heads under water and flapping their wings and sometimes chasing each other. Occasionally their notes were heard - the sun shone brightly on them -
